

A Community Health Message from Dr. Bonnie J. Sorensen

We thank everyone for being patient and allowing our most vulnerable residents to be vaccinated first against the H1N1 flu virus.

At this time, the Volusia County Health Department is opening up the free H1N1 vaccinations to anyone who wants to be vaccinated. You may visit one of our four health department clinic locations to be vaccinated.

Volusia County has received more than 100,000 doses of the H1N1 vaccine and shipments continue to arrive. The vaccine is being distributed to health care providers as well as hospitals, pharmacies, fire departments, urgent care centers, and a number of community partners. You may also call your private provider to check on vaccine availability.

The goal of the Florida H1N1 Mass Immunization Campaign is to immunize all Floridians and visitors who want to be vaccinated. Our dedicated team of nurses and other health professionals is trained and ready to serve the needs of Volusia County residents who are seeking vaccination for protection against the H1N1 virus.
