2. If you have a product that is included in the recall, do not use the product.
3. WIC clients may request refunds for affected formula by calling the Gerber Parent Resource Center at 1-800-777-7690. Do not return or exchange your WIC formula at the grocery store. Please contact your health care provider to prescribe a different formula temporarily. Contact your local WIC clinic to discuss changing your food package.
4. If your baby consumed formula from a recalled batch, and you suspect she or he is having an adverse reaction, immediately call your pediatrician. For all feeding-related questions or questions about your child's health, contact a health care professional.

Cronobacter is bacteria that can cause severe, life-threatening infections or an inflammation of the membranes that protect the brain and spine. Symptoms may include poor feeding, irritability, temperature changes, jaundice (yellow skin and whites of the eyes), grunting breaths and abnormal movements.
